

Dr. Thomas Weber is an Austrian cardiologist. He is Deputy Director of Cardiology Department at the Klinikum Wels-Grieskirchen, in Wels, Austria. His clinical interests cover interventional cardiology, heart failure and hypertension while his scientific interests are pulsatile hemodynamics, arterial stiffness, vascular aging, 24-hour hemodynamics, heart failure, coronary artery disease, hypertension, aortic disease and renal denervation.

During his scientific career, he authored 80 original articles, 61 review articles, 15 editorials, 14 international and national Guidelines and Consensus papers and 10 Book chapters.

Dr. Weber has been president of the Austrian Society of Hypertension (2014-18) and since 2018 is vice-president of the ARTERY – Association for Research into Arterial Structure and Function – society. Since 2019 he is Scientific Council Member of the European Society of Hypertension.